

PULITZER PRIZE

In Drama

TERMS OF THE AWARD

Columbia University, on the recommendation of The Pulitzer Prize Board, annually awards a Pulitzer Prize in drama of $10,000 "for a distinguished play by an American author, preferably original in its source and dealing with American life."

ENTRIES FOR THE AWARD

Productions opening in the United States between January 1, 2009 and December 31, 2009 are eligible. Playscripts of productions may be submitted to the Pulitzer Office for forwarding to the Drama Jury. Such entries should be made in advance of the December 31, 2009 deadline and should include the following:

1. A completed entry form, plus a biography and photograph of the playwright
2. Dates and place of production
3. Six (6) published or manuscript copies of the play

A videotape of the production is strongly urged but is not required. If a video is submitted, it will be used only to assist the judging process and will be returned on request after the awards are announced.

Please note that a dramatic work need not be formally submitted in order to be considered by the Drama Jury. However, it must be produced and receive a press opening within the deadline dates.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE AWARD

Columbia University awards the Pulitzer Prize in Drama annually on the recommendation of The Pulitzer Prize Board, which acts on the nominations of a distinguished committee of Pulitzer Drama Jurors. The award is announced during the Spring.

Entry forms may be obtained from The Pulitzer Prize Office, 709 Journalism, Columbia University, New York, New York 10027. (212) 854-3841 or 2. Forms and information may also be downloaded from the Pulitzer Prize Web site: www.pulitzer.org