

To whom it may concern,

Enclosed please find my entry for the 2015 Pulitzer Prize under the cartoon category. I have tried to include a representative sampling of the diverse approaches I use in my weekly efforts to inform and provoke readers through humor and satire.

I am submitting this entry in my capacity as a cartoonist for Daily Kos, but please note that my work is syndicated to approximately 80 print newspapers across the country as well.

For 25 years, I have tried to push the limits of what an editorial cartoon can be -- in approach, in subject matter, in appearance. These efforts have earned professional recognition including the 2013 Herblock Prize for editorial cartooning and the RFK Journalism Award (on two occasions), and praise from sources ranging from the New York Review of Books to Entertainment Weekly to authors such as Dave Eggers and the late Kurt Vonnegut.

I thank you in advance for your time.

Sincerely,

Daniel Perkins
("Tom Tomorrow")
